

House N is reconstructed first with a thin shirt and then a thicker shirt and then a ratty loose weave sweater whose loops are the last crossing between our heat and the cold. In a city destroyed by an apocalypse, these are the only boundaries left between inside and outside. Even though it's summer, it suddenly starts to snow.